Integrates a sound theoretical basis with clinical practice.

Prepares students to transition into the role of the professional psychologist, encompassing psychological assessment and intervention.

Training emphasizes the socio-political impact of systems (family, community, and cultural) on psychological functioning.

DOCTOR OF PSYCHOLOGY in Clinical Psychology

Our practitioner-scholar model prepares students to use well refined critical thinking skills, fine-tuned clinical knowledge, and application grounded in the kind of innovative and complex science that distinguishes a doctoral degree.

PSYD IN CLINICAL PSYCHOLOGY

Antioch PsyD students have the opportunity to integrate cutting-edge psychological training, theory, practice, and research, while sharpening and applying the skills of a true clinician – observation, analysis, intervention, and evaluation – for the benefit of their clients.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>YEAR</th>
<th>CURRICULUM &amp; CLINICAL HOURS</th>
<th>SAMPLE COURSES</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| YEAR 1 | Post-Bachelor’s Entry | Foundation coursework plus 150 hours of supervised clinical experience. | • Family Systems
• Human Development
• Introduction to Legal & Ethical Issues
• Psychopathology |
| YEARS 2–4 | Post-Master’s Entry* | In addition to the required courses, students gain valuable experience with 1,000 hours of clinical training. Students also work on their dissertations years 2 through 5. | • Child Custody Evaluation
• Mediation & Conflict
• Neuropsychological Assessment
• Psychobiology
• Psycho-diagnostic Assessment
• Research Methods |
| YEAR 5 | Pre-doctoral Internship: Full-time internships are one year (part-time internships are two years). |

*For Master’s Degrees in Clinical or Counseling Psychology.

Our program trains psychologists who cultivate genuine curiosity, clinical competence, research skills, and wisdom throughout their lives in order to serve society as socially responsible practitioners and scholars.

— Ron Pilato, PsyD, Program Chair
Antioch University is a not-for-profit private institution accredited by the Higher Learning Commission.

antiochsb.edu/psyd

QUESTIONS?
The Office of Admissions is available to answer questions by phone or appointment:
805.962.8179 x 5301
or admissions.ausb@antioch.edu

Our students provide essential therapeutic and diagnostic services to a diverse population.

CAREER PREPARATION
Our graduates are prepared to become licensed psychologists providing essential therapeutic and diagnostic services to today's diverse population working with individuals, families, and groups in clinical settings.
Job responsibilities may include assessments, therapy, forensic consultation, supervision, research, teaching, and policy and program development. Career settings include:
- Government agencies
- Non-profit organizations
- Private practice
- Hospitals
- Research institutions
- Schools & universities

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS
- Family and Forensic Psychology education and training
- Cultural competence developed in an eco-systemic/contextual framework fostering the training of psychologists dedicated to serve
- Multi-cultural and diversity training
- Uses the core competencies of the National Council of Schools and Programs of Professional Psychology
- Faculty who are practicing clinicians in the community with firsthand knowledge and current real-world experience
- Comprehensive clinical experience including at least 1000 hours of practicum training and pre-doctoral internship in the final year of study
- Schedule: Classes take place all day on Thursdays and half-days on Fridays, October through mid-June, and students often use summer breaks to augment practicum traineeships and conduct dissertation research
- Dissertation offers an opportunity for students to integrate coursework, clinical, and research efforts
- Community engagement with underserved populations

APPLY
To access the online application and learn more about admission requirements, visit:
www.antiochsb.edu/apply

TUITION
Tuition & fees approximately:
$24,500/year
$3,000/pre-doctoral internship year

DEADLINES
One entrance per year in the Fall (October) quarter.
Early Action Deadline:
January 31
Final Deadline (space permitting):
July 15

Volunteering at a community health clinic to assist in serving the mental health needs of marginalized people of color is a powerful act of social justice.

– Salvador Treviño, PhD, Director of Practicum and Core Faculty

Office of Admissions
602 Anacapa Street
Santa Barbara, CA 93101
805.962.8179 ext.5301

antiochsb.edu/psyd
Antioch University is a not-for-profit private institution accredited by the Higher Learning Commission.